

SOPHIE BILLE BRAHE

BESPOKE JEWELLERY

Overview

Graduated from London's Royal College of Arts, fine jewellery designer Sophie Bille Brahe has recently started up her studio in Copenhagen. Sophie offers pieces that reflect her thrill for storytelling and avant-garde design, always striving to crack modern luxury. Though she is a new girl on the block, she has assembled a cult following for her designs which combine elegance with an imaginative sentiment, and which already earned her invitations for showcases and exhibitions around Europe. The jewellery has been featured in top fashion magazines like L'Officiel and Wallpaper, and has adorned a clientele of inspiring women.

Beginning her career in 2006, Sophie was and remains inspired by the reflections in precious stones and gold, the main theme of which includes poetic elements, innovation and the unexplained. Over the last few years, Sophie has created a number of collections alone and in collaboration with designers like Danish Stine Goya and German Bernhard Willhelm. These collections consist of handcrafted, one-of-a-kind pieces that are only sold to selected clients.
